

2022 LRPRA Board of Directors Candidates

Robert Malinowski

My wife and I moved to Lake Ridge after falling in love with the well-maintained diversity of housing and the natural environment. Our previous home in Chicago became an award-winning community of parks and Presidential Award winning schools. I felt that the reason for that success was community involvement.

I have been involved as a volunteer at the Workhouse and the Boy Scouts as an advisor to scout units in Lake Ridge schools. I currently serve on the LRPRA Architectural Committee and now I would like to serve the greater community as a board member.

John Maher

Retired Navy officer and defense contractor. Moved to LRPRA in 1990, buying in 1993. Conservationist and founder of Lake Ridge Deer Management and Conservation; working to restore a native environment in common grounds; a unique amenity for the future and enhance property values. I contribute nature articles for Lake Ridge Today.

- Expand respectful HOA communication with and among members – especially to resolve difficult issues. Recorded virtual meetings can promote participation.
- Relate amenities to dues – in return for investment.
- Focus on member amenities to set LRPRA above other HOAs
- Attract renters/homeowners and retain them as their careers advance and families grow.

Jack Bisase

My years serving as an American diplomat on multiple continents has given me a unique perspective that I hope to bring to the Lake Ridge Board of Directors. Being a part of small, tight-knit communities abroad has given me an appreciation for how special communities like Lake Ridge are. I would use my time on the board to add new ways of thinking to help the HOA maximize its potential. My goal would be to help the board create new ways to provide a dynamic, vibrant, and safe community for our residents to live, work, learn and grow up in.

Richard Nowinski

We joined the Lake Ridge Community to enroll our children in the best schools in the area and also for the well-maintained homes, landscaping and property values. We all agreed to certain covenants that ensure these benefits continue in our community. I learned during my 28 years in the Army and 15 years teaching 8th Grade Science at Fred Lynne and Lake Ridge Middle Schools that a community prospers best when its members work toward common goals and follow agreed upon rules. If you select me for the board, I intend to focus on our current and future covenants.

I'm Michael, and I'd appreciate your vote. As a resident of Lake Ridge, I've lived here with my family for the past 12 years. I've served on the LRPRA Board of Directors for three years, the last two as its Vice President. I believe open understanding of resident needs, management decisions driven by good data and experience, and a strong Association workforce are keys to success. If asked to serve again, my focus will remain on ensuring that LRPRA delivers on its implicit promises to current residents while making the investments necessary for a long-term healthy, vibrant, and welcoming community.
